

That Dog Law

I have examined the records of the House Journal which is filed in this county, page 359, which shows that you voted against the DOG TAX. That is an affidavit of the Clerk of the House. If your people will not believe that record, they would not believe Crone, if he were to return from the dead.

I hope this will answer all purposes.

As ever your friend,
(Signed) A. L. DENNEY,
Member Ky. Legislature, 1906 session, from Wayne and Chester counties.

Great Guns of Old.

We are accustomed to think of large cannon as a very recent invention. Yet as long ago as 1543 a certain Ralph Hodge of Buckstead, in Sussex, cast large guns, and a pupil of his, Thomas Johnson, in 1593 made for the Earl of Cumberland "forty-two cast pieces of great ordnance of iron." These weighed 3,000 pounds—three tons—apiece and, we are told, showed very fine, smooth workmanship. All the smelting was done with charcoal, of which it took three tons to smelt each ton of iron. Also all the ore was carted from the mine on pack horses, which took a load of about 300 pounds each. The immense amount of labor and expense may be imagined.—London Graphic.

for violations. There is a heavy penalty for violations.

Ethyl alcohol is regarded by the Federal Government as an intoxicating liquor within the meaning of the act, but methyl wood or denatured alcohols are not so regarded. No ruling has been made regarding the status of patent medicines containing alcohol, and that question may be among the first to be passed on by the courts under the legislation.

The language of the anti-shipment section is very comprehensive, imposing a fine of $1,000 and imprisonment for six months, or both, on any person who shall "order, purchase or cause intoxicating liquors to be transported in interstate commerce except for scientific, sacramental, medicinal or for mechanical purposes into any State or territory the laws of which State or territory prohibit the manufacture or sale therein of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes."

The penalties are prescribed for violators of the anti-advertising section. For a second offense in either case the penalty is made one year's imprisonment.

The Post-office Department, in promulgating the order for enforcement of the anti-advertising section, names the following States as wholly affected:

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Georgia, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, Nebraska, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia, Washington and West Virginia.

Those partially affected are: California, Connecticut, Delaware, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New York, Ohio and Texas.

The following are affected at future dates; Alaska, Jan. 1st, 1918; Indiana, April 3, 1918; Michigan, April 30, 1918; Montana, Dec. 21, 1918, and Utah, August 1, 1917.

South Dakota, legally dry, is less arid than outsiders have supposed. It develops that druggists are allowed to sell alcohol "for veterinary use" without a prescription.

According to the Sioux Press, "an owner of an animal may buy alcohol in as large quantities as the druggist will sell for scientific purposes by giving the druggist the inference that it is for a sick animal."

Wherefore "sick horses" and "sick cows" are terms that are current in South Dakota, along with a familiar eye-wink, to the grief of the prohibitionists and the scandal of all right-thinking citizens.—Lynn (Hann) Telegram.

JAMES S. GOLDEN FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY

The above is a picture of the most suitable man for the office of County Attorney. We believe that he possesses all of the necessary qualities that make a man successful as the Attorney for the county. He is a young man of sound sense; he has educated himself from the common schools on through one of the best law schools; he has a good character; he is accommodating and kindhearted; he has had ample experience in the courthouse.

The people of the county should feel an interest in such a young man—one who was born and reared among them. Give him a chance to come to the front by electing him to this office.

The Pessimist Says:

It is doubtless true that many men are of many minds. But many of the men I know couldn't make one real mind if they dumped their whole equipment in that line into a common measure.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

"The Army and Navy Forever!"

"Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean"

O COLUMBIA, the gem of the ocean;
The home of the brave and the free,
The shrine of each patriot's devotion,
A world offers homage to thee.
Thy mandates make heroes assemble
When Liberty's form stands in view;
Thy banners make tyranny tremble
When borne by the red, white and blue.

CHORUS.

When borne by the red, white and blue;
When borne by the red, white and blue;
Thy banners make tyranny tremble
When borne by the red, white and blue.

WHEN war winged its wide desolation
And threatened our land to deform,
The ark then of Freedom's foundation,
Columbia rode safe through the storm.
With the garlands of victory around her,
When so proudly she bore her brave crew,
With her flag proudly floating before her,
The boast of the red, white and blue.

THE wine cup, the wine cup bring hither,
And fill you it true to the brim.
May the wreaths they have won never wither
Nor the stars of their glory grow dim!
May the service united ne'er sever,
But hold to their colors so true!
The army and navy forever!
Three cheers for the red, white and blue!

Reed Amendment Goes Into Effect, 23 States Bone-Dry.

Law Bars all Shipments Of Liquor Into Dry Territory.

Washington, June 30.—Twenty-three States will be bone dry after midnight to-night, the effective hour of the Reed amendment, prohibiting shipment of liquor into any territory where its manufacture or sale is prohibited. Eleven other States are partially affected by the legislation, which has been hailed by temperance advocates as the greatest single step towards abolition of the liquor traffic yet taken in the nation's history.

The law bars from prohibition area, whether State or smaller corporations, all mail matter containing advertisements or solicitations for orders for intoxicants, a provision designed to aid in enforcing the anti-shipment feature by suppressing the activities of mail-order houses in dry territory.

Justice and Post-office Department officials have made extensive preparations for enforcement of the statute. United States Marshals and postal inspectors everywhere have been instructed to be on the lookout the money, being the drink of "The would rob the bank." Well, that actually happened one day last week. Wilson who was known to the bank as a workman, and everyone who knew him knew that he worked every day. He worked and saved a little each week and gave his little mite each week to Mr. L. E. Benjamine, who kept them for him. Some sneak thief went into the office and took the money so saved, knowing whose money it was and why it was in the box.

Mr. Benjamine is a good man; he does not want to say who it was that took this sacred fund; he knows the party that got it; he has the proof dead to right; he is going to give them a chance to bring the money back, if they do there will be nothing more said. If they do not bring the money back at once his duty that got this before the Grand returning this money the fellow keep it and go to the penitentiary instead. Be wise, get busy; you can leave it in the place you found it if you want to.

Safety First.

John's mother a food crop for his private supper," said the Bill. "The parent," he heaved help the rest of us. "We don't want to help ourselves, for the boy kin eat an egg and a slice of ham and a spring garden for lunch and a chicken for dinner. He'll eat it all up and it'll be supper time!"

A Finicky Traveler.

"That feller is a well, all right," remarked the bellhop in a country hotel. "Said he had to have two rooms," answered the clerk. "What d'ye suppose he wanted two rooms for?" "He said he wanted one to go to bed in and the other to get in in."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Mommsen's Peculiarity.

On his eightieth birthday Thorvald Mommsen, the historian, received a great delegation of students from all over the world. Mommsen, did not like to be disturbed, but he did not like to leave his room. "They see me every day at the university," he said. "Why do they want to disturb me?"
